Cars are becoming more complex.

Your safety drives us to provide an exceptional standard of service, repairs and convenience.

It doesn't matter whether you drive a Toyota or a Bentley, a sports car or an SUV. Vehicles today are complex machines. Their lightweight construction and specialized technology add fuel efficiency to the car and help protect you and your family. But they also make repairs challenging. After an accident, cars must be repaired precisely, to manufacturer's specifications, to be safe on the road again.

Cars are more sophisticated than ever.

To improve fuel efficiency and meet the 2025 government-imposed standard of 36 miles per gallon, car manufacturers are making new cars with lighter materials like aluminum, high-strength steel, composites and carbon fiber.

New cars with specialized engines, such as turbo engines or hybrid/electric drivetrains, are more complex and expensive to repair correctly.

Safety enhancements like more airbags, and collision avoidance and parking sensors are becoming common, which keeps you safer but makes collision repairs complicated and costly.

Fixing cars is more expensive than ever.

Lighter materials make collision damage more severe. Complex construction and complicated technology make repairs more challenging and costly.

But Chubb's commitment to you will never change.

At Chubb, you're more than a claim. You're our client. That's why we believe in providing the highest quality repair for the highest level of safety - and never on doing repairs as cheaply as possible. You'll notice the Chubb difference across your experience - because when it comes to our clients, we're always looking for ways to say yes, and ways to do even more.

We won't compromise when it comes to our clients.

Our elite team of Auto Technical Specialists makes sure vehicles are repaired according to manufacturer's specifications, or we'll cover you for a total loss.

Chubb has been insuring cars since they were first invented - everything from everyday cars to high-end, luxury vehicles. We respond quickly and professionally to our clients, regardless of whether they're in a small accident or a large catastrophic event. We insist on the highest repair standards to keep our clients safe. That's why our Auto Technical Specialists are certified collision repair professionals, and act as safety advocates for you, making sure your vehicle is repaired correctly, every time.

Our expertise sets us apart.

100,000

Over the past five years, we've settled more high-end, complex auto collision claims than all of our key competitors combined.

50% vs 6%

Half of Chubb clients own European brand cars, which are known for being complex vehicles, compared to just 6% of customers with other carriers, making Chubb uniquely qualified to address repairs for our clients.

We focus on the safety and satisfaction of our clients and their families - never on repairing cars as cheaply as possible.

You'll benefit from the highest repair standards.

Where to go: You can choose a dealership, local body shop or Chubb-approved Masterpiece Auto Preference Services (MAPS) shop for repairs. MAPS shops are pre-certified, based on their skill and experience.

What parts to use: We insist on Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM) parts, which are designed to work with the vehicle's safety systems. Aftermarket, junkyard or remanufactured collision-damaged parts may not perform well in a subsequent crash.

When to total: If your vehicle cannot be safely repaired according to the manufacturer's specifications, we'll cover you for a total loss.

A car's features can help keep you safe. And Chubb's high standards will help ensure you stay protected.

Safety and convenience features like these may improve your driving experience and reduce the potential for crashes, but they also make repairs more challenging and costly. At Chubb, we're committed to repairing and replacing them according to the highest standards, ensuring you stay protected on the road.

Case Study

2014 Mercedes S550, hit in the rear while at a stop light

- Agreed Value: $108,000
- Mileage: 4,901
- The other driver had $25,000 coverage for property damage

The other driver's insurance estimated repairs would cost $9,000. Chubb's MAPS shop's initial estimate was $33,000, but our Auto Technical Specialist noted that the collision energy transfer had also caused roof damage.

Since there was no manufacturer approved technique for that, we totaled the car and paid the client $108,000.

Case Study

2016 GMC Yukon, hit on the left front fender and door, while sitting at an intersection. Airbags deployed and there was damage to the wheels on the left side.

- Agreed Value: $72,260
- Actual Cash Value of the vehicle: $61,398
- Mileage: 2,657

Initial damage estimate equaled $21,763 (35% of the actual cash value of the vehicle). However, because the inner structure (cowl panel and hinge pillar) may have been damaged as well, which could lead to safety issues, and the salvage value was high ($26,608), we totaled the vehicle.

We paid $75,759 to the lien holder, according to our client's GAP coverage. The client didn't have to pay anything to the lien holder before purchasing a new vehicle.

Turbo Engine

Small, powerful, and fuel efficient

Hybrid Drivetrains
